THE EXECUTIVE16 MARCH 2004*REPORT FROM THE DIRECTOR OF CORPORATE STRATEGY

FUNDING FOR A MEMBER TO ATTEND THE LEADERSHIP ACADEMY	FOR DECISION
This report asks the Executive to agree funding for Councillor M McCarthy to attend the Improvement and Development Agency's Leadership Academy. Summary The Leadership Academy aims to help Members learn from the latest thinking in political leadership, and to help develop personal, organisational, political, and community skills. It costs £1250 plus VAT, travel and any extra accommodation. The Council's Constitution (Contract Rules) requires that the Executive's agreement to this sum. Recommendation The Executive is recommended to approve the costs of attendance for Councillor McCarthy during 2004-2005. Reason Members are committed to pursuing a range of developmental opportunities for themselves as a body, and this course is not only a proven national leader in the field, but also provides opportunities for raising LBBd's profile in a national arena, in line with the Audit Commission's recommendations following their CPA assessment of the Council. The cost can be met from the budget for Members' training.

1. Background

Seven Members from LBBd have attended the Leadership Academy since it started. All have reported positively about the benefits. This is an average level of attendance for a Council, and, given the quality of the training, it would be good to maintain and increase this level of attendance

2. The Leadership Academy

There are three modules of two days each, covering personal, political, and community leadership. There is an optional fourth module should participants want to look at issues in more depth. The modules are residential, and take place at Warwick University. This sometimes means that Members need to stay an extra night because of travel arrangements.

3. Proposal

The Members' Development Working Party has discussed and agreed this proposal. Attendance at the Leadership Academy has been identified as a useful investment for Councillor McCarthy and the Council, and it is part of his written Personal Development Plan. It is therefore proposed that the Council sponsor him.

4. The Future

Details of the Leadership Academy are attached, and all Members who have not attended are encouraged to consider doing so. Though the literature is targeted at Members in leadership positions, in fact applications from all Members are considered, and there are also programmes specifically for young Members and for Black, Asian, and Ethnic Minority Members.

advancing personal, organisational, political and community skills for councillors in leadership positions

The last few years have brought considerable changes to the role of councillors in leadership positions. Legislation has put elected members at the centre of the economic, social and environmental well-being of their communities.

New structures bring new challenges and opportunities. New frameworks in partnership working and inspection require fresh skills and understanding for all civic leaders.

The IDeA set up the Leadership Academy – which is revised each year – to take account of developments and modern thinking on leadership.

After three successful years we are proud to launch our programmes for 2003/4. We have brought together some of the most experienced tutors and practitioners in local government to provide support and guidance for councillors in leadership positions.

Each programme consists of three – two-day residential modules covering the key themes of personal development in the context of local government, political and organisational leadership, and community leadership and cohesion.

A fourth optional module is designed individually by each group to reflect its unique and specific learning agenda.

The Leadership Academy is challenging and reflects the diverse backgrounds of councillors with a range of teaching styles and methods of delivery. It is demanding, but not exclusive. Those whose knowledge has mostly been gained through experience find the programme as beneficial and enjoyable as those with more formal qualifications.

Local authorities have always rightly invested in training and development for senior managers. The Leadership Academy is designed to make a similar investment in councillors in leadership positions.

leadership modules

module one

Personal development in the context of local government is delivered by Andrew Holder Associates (AHA) and focuses on the member as a learner in a rapidly changing political environment

module two

Political and organisational leadership is delivered by the University of Warwick Business School and examines the latest thinking about political and organisational leadership in the context of local government module three

Community leadership and cohesion is delivered by the Office for Public Management (OPM) and encourages members to explore and experiment with the latest techniques of community leadership module four

Post-graduate experience is an optional module designed specifically to meet the needs of each programme group what they say about the programme...

I CAME – with trepidation at joining a group of leaders because Independents tend to accept the jobs they are given – not lead.

I SAW that I wasn't so different from 'political' members and learnt that the qualities to lead are not confined to other people – I could do it.

I CONQUERED – I think – the others who gained an understanding that Independents are not a different species and can work alongside them. I learnt a lot and feel I contributed something to the group.

I would advise anyone to attend – you will enjoy it and gain a great deal from the course.

Cllr Brenda Lawson (Independent)

A chance to share and learn with fellow practitioners. You start to look more carefully at your own motivation and to think about the ways to motivate others.

Cllr Tony Roberts
Newark & Sherwood District Council

The Leadership Academy is a great way to find out more about your leadership role, help you think strategically and develop your personal skills. I recommend it highly."

Cllr Laura Willoughby (Lib Dem)
Executive Member for Communities – Islington

The Leadership Academy has been an enjoyable and inspiring experience. It has been a milestone in my personal and political development. When I graduated, I felt ready to take up new challenges in a leadership role on the Executive.

Since I have become an Executive Member, I have been fulfilling my community and political leadership roles, maximising the skills I have gained on the course. I highly recommend the Leadership Academy to colleagues.

how to apply to the Leadership Academy

Leading members (including leaders of councils, leaders of political groups, portfolio holders, scrutiny leaders and opposition spokespeople) are eligible to apply for the academy. It is perfectly acceptable for local authorities to block book a number of councillors at once, but only one will be allowed to attend each programme. Programmes are cross-party and restricted to twenty members to ensure maximum participation. The cost per programme is £1,250 plus VAT. This covers accommodation, tuition and all materials for the three compulsory modules. A small additional accommodation charge will be made for optional module four, depending on location and duration.

THE EXECUTIVE16 MARCH 2004*JOINT REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF CORPORATE STRATEGY
AND THE DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION, ARTS AND LIBRARIES

'BREAKING THE SILENCE' REPORT - THE EXPERIENCES OF LESBIAN, GAY MEN, BISEXUALS AND TRANSGENDER (LGBT) PEOPLE IN BARKING AND DAGENHAM: ISSUES FOR THE COUNCIL AND OTHER PUBLIC SERVICE PROVIDERS	FOR DECISION
This report is submitted to inform TMT of the findings of the 'Breaking the Silence' Report in to experiences of LGBT people in Barking and Dagenham and issues arising for the Council and its strategic Partners organisations. It seeks approval to refer the report to the Council's Executive and the Barking & Dagenham Partnership for further action. Summary This report conveys the findings of a survey in 2002/03 in the London borough of Barking & Dagenham. The survey sought to explore the experiences of LGBT people living and working in the borough and identify their key issues and concerns to inform policy and service planning. The imperative for this project came from two interrelated sources: one national and the other local. Firstly, the need for Public Authorities to address LGBT issues is increasingly prominent on the Government's agenda, with the implementation of the EU Directive on Sexual Orientation and recent proposals on gender recognition, partnership rights and tackling homophobic crime Secondly, within this national policy context, the Council, and its strategic partners, are aware of their lack of contact with and real knowledge of this highly marginalised section of the local community. There is a general recognition that LGBT people are one of the most difficult of the 'hard to reach' groups, where there are specific barriers to making effective contact and there is the very real threat of homophobic harassment and violence. The report was prepared through the active participation of 42 local lesbians, gay men, bisexuals and transgender people and professionals working in the field of LGBT support The issues of concern to LGBT people are deeply personal being based upon on sexuality, emotion, on their own bodies and on their treatment by family, friends, work colleagues and society in general. To comprehensively chart the needs of the LGBT communities will be a longer term process, involving more extensive trust building and accessing friendship and social networks locally. However, this report and its contents represent a rare glimpse in to the lives and concerns of Barking and Dagenham people that are usually hidden from the mainstream.

One of the major bonuses arising from the project is that it has drawn together a significant number of local LGBT people who wish to establish a consultative mechanism to facilitate further engagement with the Council and other strategic partners on their concerns and service needs. This is a development which the Corporate Equalities and Diversity Team have sought to facilitate and support and there has also been strong interest by other local agencies, such as the Police and the PCT, to access such a structure.

Recommendations

The Executive is asked to:

1. Approve the contents of the Report;
2. Agree the LGBT Strategic Statement of Intent; based upon the recommendations contained in the 'Breaking the Silence' Report, and refer it to services for action;
3. Endorse the establishment of an LGBT consultative mechanism and proposals to continue work with the local LGBT communities through the Council and the Partnership; and
4. That the full Report and its Executive Summary be formally launched through the Barking & Dagenham Partnership.

Reason

The Council should agree this report in order to respond proactively to the EU Directive on sexual orientation, forthcoming legislative changes and, in doing so, deliver on existing policy commitments in the Council's Corporate Equalities & Diversity Policy Framework.

1. Background

1.1 In June 2002, the Assembly agreed the Council's Corporate Equalities and Diversity Policy Framework, which included a Corporate Equalities and Diversity Policy Statement and 5 specific policy statements covering the following areas:

- Race
- Gender
- Disability
- Sexuality
- Older People

- 1.2 The policy statement on sexuality recognises the effects of heterosexism and homophobia in Society and the discrimination and repression lesbians and gay men experience in their daily lives. In addition, it makes the following specific commitments:
- ‘To strive for the provision of equal access to its services and equal treatment of people who use its services and its employees who are lesbian and gay’
 - To meet the specific needs of lesbians and gay men arising from the discrimination that they face. The Council recognises that lesbians and gay men have a range of different needs and concerns. It accepts its responsibility to identify these concerns and needs through consultation and research.’
- 1.3 In order to implement these policy commitments, the Council needs to engage with local LGBT people and become aware of their needs and concerns. The ‘Breaking the Silence’ report was commissioned by the Council’s Corporate Equalities and Diversity Team to enable the Council to establish contact and build up a knowledge of the views of these particular hard to reach communities and, in doing so, begin to fulfil its agreed policy commitments.
- 1.4 The production of a study in to the concerns and service needs of the local LGBT communities was also included as a target in the generic equalities and diversity strategic objectives in the Race Equality Scheme Year Two (Community Involvement) Action Plan. The establishment of a borough consultative mechanism with the LGBT communities is a commitment in the Partnership’s Community Cohesion Strategy, ‘One Community, Many Communities’ (2004/07)
- 1.5 The inclusion of the policy statement on sexuality in the Council’s Equalities and Diversity Policy Framework anticipated that these issues would form an increasingly prominent element in the Government’s equalities agenda. That prediction has proven correct with the implementation of the EU Directive on Sexual Orientation and the launching of recent proposals on gender recognition and partnership rights; as well as establishing a higher profile for issues such as homophobic bullying in schools and homophobic and transphobic crime.
- 1.6 It should be noted that the introduction of the EU Directive on Sexual Orientation has created a new legislative imperative to address LGBT issues. Local authorities need to be proactive in responding to new legal obligations and, in doing so, protect themselves against possible discrimination cases.
- 1.6 This report provides an excellent starting point to respond to the Government’s agenda and, in doing so, begin taking forward proactive engagement with the local LGBT communities in Barking & Dagenham and consideration their concerns and needs as part of the Council and Partnership’s policy and service planning process.

2. The Methodology

- 2.1 This report is the result of consultation with a sample of 42 lesbians, gay men, bisexuals and transgender people living or working in the borough and targeted professionals working in the field of LGBT support.

- 2.2 92 local lesbians and gay men were initially contacted through the internet, a local support group, a lesbian and gay youth group based in Romford, a transgender support group based in Dagenham and friendship and personal contacts. Most participants were asked to complete an 81 question survey (35 responded) or (7) were interviewed face to face.
- 2.3 Gay men were over-represented in the research. Gay men's usage of the internet allowed a much deeper and faster access in to that part of the community. Although there are lesbian websites for chat/meeting people, these are not so widely used and it is more difficult to identify locality.
- 2.4 The internet is developing as a crucial tool for contacting and interviewing lesbians and gay men, especially those who do not access lesbian and gay venues and those who treat internet usage as part of their regular life. It also guarantees the safety of consultees in that it maintains confidentiality and interviews can be carried out in real time.
- 2.5 One of the lessons raising from the project is that the Council needs to develop the use of the Internet as one of the tools in engaging with the local LGBT communities. The advantage being that it will facilitate contact with those people who wish to engage with the Council, but want to maintain confidentiality and do not wish to participate in a face to face consultative meeting.

3. What Kind of Population?

- 3.1 The report estimates that approximately 10,000 residents in Barking and Dagenham are lesbian or gay (an estimated 5,030 gay/bisexual men and 4,700 lesbian/bisexual women)
- 3.2 The transgendered community is far more difficult to estimate. However, working on the commonly quoted basis of 5,000 post-operative transgendered people nationwide, it has been estimated that London boroughs each have between 15-20 residents.
- 3.3 The Report suggested that the local LGBT communities appear isolated and most social activities and friendships networks are based outside of the borough. Only 18% of those surveyed had six or more had LGBT friends in the area and more than half had no or just one LGBT friend in the borough.
- 3.4 The absence of a strong LGBT infrastructure and social scene in Barking & Dagenham is a contributing factor to the isolation and exclusion of LGBT people in the borough. It is likely that most people socialise at venues in Newham, Tower Hamlets or central London.
- 3.5 The Project Co-ordinator of Caress (a local HIV/AIDS support organisation that also hosted a LGB support group at the time of the survey – 'People R People) described the situation locally as: 'a lonely community. When people attend the gay support group for the first time they are incredibly nervous, but slowly come out of their shells.'

4. Follow up Work with the LGBT Communities

- 4.1 This report and its contents represent a rare glimpse in to the lives and concerns of Barking and Dagenham people that are usually hidden from the mainstream. It is also constitutes an excellent starting point to continue working with these communities and secure a fully comprehensive picture of the concerns and service needs of this section of the local community.
- 4.2 Indeed, it is clear that there are a number of key services where the Council do not currently have the views of LGBT people. An example of this is the accessibility of leisure facilities and the use of parks and open spaces. These are issues that are not covered in the 'Breaking the Silence' Report and needs to be the subject of further consultation.
- 4.3 To comprehensively chart the needs of the LGBT communities will be a longer term process, involving more extensive trust building and accessing friendship and social networks locally. It is clear that there are real service needs relating to the local LGBT communities to the Council and its strategic Partners need to be aware.
- 4.4 One of the major bonuses arising from the project is that it has drawn together a significant number of local LGBT people who wish to establish a consultative mechanism to facilitate further engagement with the Council and other strategic partners on their concerns and service needs. This is a development which the Corporate Equalities and Diversity Team have sought to facilitate and support and there has also been strong interest by other local agencies, such as the Police and the PCT, to access such a structure.
- 4.5 In working with the local LGBT communities on the survey we have secured a very positive response. In doing so we have began the vital process of building up trust and establishing a relationship with these communities. It is important that the momentum of this process is continued if we are to continue to benefit from this initial work.

5. The Twelve Areas of LGBT Inclusion Identified in the Report - A Strategic Statement of Intent

- 5.1 The report identifies 12 key areas of LGBT inclusion. These are the areas where local authorities and other public sector bodies impact most upon the lives of LGBT people
- 5.2 These 12 key areas provide the overall framework for the detailed list of recommendations put forward in the Report. In adopting the recommendations, the Council and the Partnership are also requested to endorse the following Strategic Statement of Intent:

'Breaking the Silence' Report – Strategic Statement of Intent

Barking & Dagenham needs to become a place where the voices, experiences, needs and concerns of lesbian, gay men, bisexual and transgendered (LGBT) people are heard and responded to. In particular, the Council and its strategic partners need to ensure that the concerns and needs of the LGBT communities are fed in to and inform its policy and service planning.

Following initial consultation with local LGBT people it is intended that action be prioritised in the following areas:

1. Improving Community Safety

- We need to mainstream action on homophobia in to all local crime and disorder work
- We need to encourage the reporting of homophobic and transphobic crime, including same sex domestic violence
- The Council needs to respond to homophobic and transphobic incidents in the same way as all other incidents involving harassment and violence
- We need to build and support relationships between local lesbian, gay and transgender communities to encourage communication and build trust in local public services

2. Overcoming parenting discrimination

- We must ensure that staff training in all agencies, dealing with children locally, should ensure issues of LGBT discrimination and challenging homophobia are actively included
- The Council can encourage local LGBT people to become adoptive and foster parents.
- LGBT parents and their children can experience discrimination which impacts upon their external perceptions of their parenting ability
- We need to encourage and build capacity at a local community level to support these families.

3. Overcoming financial discrimination

- The Council should continue to encourage proposed changes to Local Government Pension Scheme to recognise same sex relationships and be flexible in recognising same sex couples
- The Council can play a positive role in contributing to the debate on civil partnerships, and gender re-assignment for local people.

4. Overcoming employment discrimination

- The impact of homophobic harassment and bullying needs to be considered in Local Authority Policies and Procedures
- The Council can respond positively to the EU Equal Treatment Directive which came into force in December 2003. This makes it illegal to discriminate against workers because of their sexual orientation.
- Organisational policies, procedures and systems need to reflect this legislative change.

5. Equality and Service Provision

- LGBT people are often invisible. The voices and experiences of LGBT people are to be reflected in internal and external communications, such as People Matters and the Citizen.
- The Council should utilize information from the Census to establish a clear baseline of information of co-habiting same sex relationships within the Borough.
- The Council and other agencies should consult with LGBT communities and feed the results in to policy and service planning
- LGBT issues should be tackled in all equalities and diversity work/action plans and publications and celebrate/commemorate specific events, to tackle invisibility

6. Promoting Health and Wellbeing

- The Council needs to work closely with external partners to promote the sexual and other health needs of lesbians, gay men, bisexuals and transgender people and secure sufficient resources to promote health.
- The Council needs to ensure that LGBT people are not invisible in Health Services and that organisational policy in relation to mental health and other health needs reflect these communities.

7. Growing up Safe and Secure

- Schools and colleges play a critical role in determining the experience of LGBT young people. Local counselling, support and Youth Services need to be flexible and responsive to the needs of LGBT young people
- The LEA and local college and university authorities should issue guidance on preventing and dealing with homophobic harassment and bullying, and consider a range of issues affecting LGBT students
- The guidance should include the issue of schools and colleges working with LGBT parents and dealing with the potential homophobia that affects them
- LGBT young people should be consulted to identify adverse impact of policies, services and procedures

8. Greater Security in Housing

- Housing policies and procedures within the Local Authority and RSL Accommodation need to be assessed to ensure they are not inadvertently discriminating against same sex couples.
- The experience of discrimination for young people needs to be considered by staff working within Homelessness Services, and appropriate training needs to be in place to address this positively.

9. Inclusion and Regeneration

- The social regeneration agenda needs to include the needs and experiences of LGBT people.
- Economic skills and development should encourage diverse and inclusive community for the future of Barking & Dagenham

10. Celebrating Diversity, promoting Culture

- Arts, Sports and Cultural policies, strategies and events need to reflect positively the experiences and needs of LGBT people.

11. Supporting Stronger Communities

- The Council needs to support and build LGBT capacity within the Local Voluntary Sector and Community Groups wherever possible
- Homophobia in service delivery should be challenged through the voluntary and community sector contracting process.

12. Establishing Partnership Rights

- The Council and other local agencies should support the GLA's Partnership Register and encourage local use where appropriate
- The Council should encourage the support and development of Civil Partnerships of the same sex couples and ensure that the community priority of "increasing rights and responsibilities" fully reflects the needs and aspirations
- There needs to be a recognition that stable partnerships in the borough requires a stable LGBT infrastructure

PEOPLE MATTER: ANNUAL REPORT ON LEARNING AND DEVELOPMENT	FOR DECISION
This report concerns a major Human Resources issue within the Executive's remit. Learning and Development is a key part of 'People Matter'. It is required to be presented to the Executive as a Performance Indicator in Organisational Development and Development's Balanced Scorecard, and it reports to Members monitoring statistics which it is good practice to report to committee. Additionally, Members last year requested departmental chapters as part of this years report.

1. Background/context

- 1.1 Learning and development are key drivers for 'People Matter', the Council's plan to develop the organisation and our staff. The people who work for the Council are its biggest and most costly resource. The Council's success is in their hands. This annual report reviews their learning and development over the past year, and sets out the agenda for 2004-2005.

- 1.2 Learning and development opportunities are provided in co-ordinated partnership, departmentally by each departmental human resources section, and corporately from the Corporate Strategy Department. The part of this report on Corporate Development and Training provides the framework, and then each department has written its own chapter as requested by the Executive last year. A standard format for departmental learning and development plans, and for reporting on these, will be used next year. Departmental Management Teams will monitor these plans every quarter.

2. People Matter

The initiatives which are part of 'People Matter' have moved forward during the past year, and the whole programme is being reviewed. Learning and development have made huge strides over the last two years. Staff all over the Council have the chance to learn things that help them support the Council's aims.

3. Investors in People

- 3.1 This is the national standard for staff development and what needs to go on in an organisation to support it. The Council had a corporate assessment in May 2003. It achieved 25 out of 33 parts of the standard, and this is a good result for a first assessment. Corporate Strategy and the Planning Division of Leisure and Environmental Services achieved Investors in People [IIP] status. Housing and Health achieved it in August. Departmental action plans are being developed, and the aim is to achieve corporate Investors in People status within a year.
- 3.2 Our assessors noted the high quality of the staff development function in the Council:

'The range and quantity of training and development activity provided is impressive. The in-house provision is well communicated and easily accessed by people. People speak highly of the training and development professionals employed and contracted by the Council.'

4. What we need to do to achieve change

- 4.1 Our IIP assessment reports that the Council's weaknesses as a whole organisation are in planning, in setting objectives for learning and development, and in evaluating the impact of it.
- 4.2 Recommendations specific to staff development are:
- Appraisal needs to be done across the Council
 - Managers and supervisors need to update their skills
 - More mandatory training should be used to drive change from the 'top down'
 - We must ensure staff beside young people and graduates have opportunities
 - There should be more use of learning opportunities beside training courses
- 4.3 The Audit Commission in its corporate assessment said that the Council needs to continue to improve officer capacity, but at a faster pace, and also that staff development needs to be progressed consistently across the Council.

5. Needs Analysis

5.1 Our annual needs analysis with Departmental Management Teams and a range of other people tells us that:

- Departments do not set objectives when they plan staff development, and they cannot, therefore, evaluate its impact.
- There are no objectives set for the organisation as a whole when learning and development needs are identified at a corporate level. Again, this means that the impact cannot be evaluated.
- This is the most important point which came out, and supports the liP assessors' findings.
- A lot of different things are wanted. The one that came up most was the development of managers and supervisors.
- This was followed by project management, health and safety, training for appraisers and appraisees, shorter courses, fresh input, and refresher input.
- Next in order of priority were: front-line staff, equalities and diversity, and the Balanced Scorecard. Basic Skills work is having a good impact. A range of other points were mentioned once only.
- Feedback on the Staff Development Programme was generally good.
- Departmental Heads of Human Resources said we need a forward-looking programme of development, focussed on one or two key drivers, integrated with service initiatives, co-ordinated across the Council, and evaluated. They saw the manager's role as central.

5.2 The key point is that corporate development and training must focus on the area that will have most strategic impact corporately, and this is leadership and management development. The Council as a whole must look to meet the whole range of needs expressed by using a variety of learning opportunities within and between departments.

6. The Management Team's Programme

6.1 Taking on board comments from this needs analysis, our liP assessors, and the Audit Commission's corporate assessment, the Management Team propose:

- a programme of prioritised learning activities for the whole Council, which underpins our organisational strategy.

The eight priorities are:

1. Customer first
2. Leaders
3. Managers
4. Supervisors
5. Basic skills
6. Induction
7. Technical skills
8. Health and safety

- objectives for this programme
- to provide an implementation plan for consistent progression of staff development across the Council
- to increase mandatory training
- to increase the allowance for off-the-job-learning activities for each member of staff to five days each year. At an average cost of £50.00 per day, the cost should be easily recouped in improved performance, retention, reduced recruitment fees, plus an enhanced profile as an employer of choice to attract applicants
- clear roles for who does what in providing learning and development activities
- to increase their focus on learning and development as part of our effort to speed up the improvement of officer capacity
- to identify the money put into learning and development across the Council, other than costs for staff time for learning activities, and to judge whether it is sufficient to meet aims. It is likely that more money will need to go into learning and development
- to evaluate the programme of learning activities against the objectives they have set

For detail of objectives and action plans see Appendix 1

For detail of roles see Appendix 2

7. Mandatory Training

7.1 In line with the suggestion of our liP assessors that we increase mandatory training, a list of current and proposed corporate mandatory training follows.

1. For those who recruit and select:
 - Selection interviewing and equal opportunities [2 days]
 - Equalities and diversity in employment [1 day]
2. For appraisers:
 - Appraisal [2 days]

3. For those who manage projects:
 - One or more of the project management training courses, as identified with line managers [all 1 day]
4. For front-line staff:
 - Customer care skills [1 day]
 - Building equalities into customer care [1 day]
5. For all involved in impact assessments:
 - Impact assessments [$\frac{1}{2}$ day]
6. For all new starters:
 - Corporate induction [$\frac{1}{2}$ day], and departmental induction
7. For in-house mentors:
 - Mentor training [2 days]
8. For all managers:
 - Equalities and diversity in service delivery [1 day]

Proposed mandatory training:

9. For all who did the training in [1] more than three years ago, a half day update on each topic.
10. For all who did the training in [2] more than three years ago, a one day update.
11. For all promoted to management positions and for all new starters who are managers:
 - Induction for managers [1 day]
12. For existing or aspiring supervisors:
 - Becoming a successful supervisor [5 days and a brief assignment]
13. For existing or aspiring managers:
 - Introductory Diploma in Management [6 days and a written assignment]

We aim to make this training mandatory over time and will be trialing a number of courses in the current year.

14. For all who work with Members:
 - Political Skills [$\frac{1}{2}$ day]
15. Departments to specify and report on their mandatory events eg induction, skills, service-specific training, legislation.

8. The Business Case

8.1 If we do this, it will give us:

- Increased officer capability, particularly management and leadership capability
- Change managed more effectively, and a faster rate of change
- Improved communications in the line

9. Evaluation of the Staff Development Programme

9.1 End-of-course evaluations and three-monthly evaluations from participants and line managers, along with the annual needs analysis, form the basis of our continuous improvement programme.

9.2 Three monthly evaluation data tells us that:

- the biggest benefit our staff identify from courses is learning and discussing issues with other people in the Council. In other words, they want to work corporately
- more people attending courses need to agree objectives with their line manager first. See Appendix 3

9.3 End of course evaluation data tells us that

- over 80% of participants think courses are just right in length
- 99.8% of participants mark the courses 3 out of 5 or higher in terms of satisfaction

9.4 We also get ad hoc comments: for example, one course participant phoned me just to say that she had found our equalities and diversity training to be excellent and it had made a real difference to her work.

10. Staff Development Programme Monitoring Statistics

10.1 These are in Appendix 4. We have compared the figures for 2002-2003 with those for 1999-2000. They tell us that:

- The number of attendees has gone up by 63% in the space of two years. Total days attended has gone up by almost 100%.
- There are huge increases in attendance by black and minority ethnic groups, women, disabled people and residents of the borough, as well as most departments.
- Finally, there are very steep increases in attendance of staff on Scales 2 to SO2.

10.2 Just one person continues to administer this programme. Statistics are needed for all types of learning and development right across the Council [see 20 below].

11. Appraisal

- 11.1 In 2002-2003, 71% of non-manual staff had an appraisal and 67% had a Personal Development Plan. This shows real progress but is still short of the target set by the Executive. Two of the unfavourable scores in the Staff Attitude Survey 2002 are related to appraisal: although the response rate was only 34%, less than half of the respondents agreed that they received regular feedback on performance, or that their manager took time to discuss developmental needs with them. Good appraisals will impact on both of these. Mandatory updates should help to address these issues.
- 11.2 In January 2003 each Director produced an implementation plan for appraisal for manual staff. The end aim is to have one-to-one appraisals for all, and some departments will move to this by starting with group appraisals. The Management Team will monitor these plans.
- 11.3 All the cooks in Education, Arts and Libraries have had appraisal training and started appraisals with teams in September 2003.

12. Equalities and Diversity

- 12.1 2002-2003 was the second year of our five-year training programme. The budget of £90,000 has contributed to the higher course attendances. 700 front line staff attended 'Building Equalities into Customer Care in 2001-2002, 500 in 2002-2003. In training we had reached level two of the Equalities standard by July 2003, although the target date is March 2004. This helps us meet the Audit Commission's recommendation that diversity and equality strategies be vigorously implemented.
- 12.2 Some of the budget was used for Positive Action training in 2002-2003. This provides specific training for groups which have been disadvantaged in the past. We have focussed on staff who are under-represented in the whole workforce and/or at management levels. The Council is sponsoring black and minority ethnic management qualification training, and has put on courses for staff who are local residents, and for women, as well as offering a mentoring scheme for disabled staff.

13. Basic Skills

The cross-borough partnership working on this is led by the Adult Basic Skills team in Education, Arts and Libraries, and is at the leading edge nationally. It has recently won a funding from the London Development Agency to participate in a pilot scheme with two other London Boroughs to embed basic skills in the workplace. The team has put in place, with the help of Departmental Heads of Human Resources, the Union Learning Fund and our Union Learner Representatives, a framework for delivering basic skills training to large number of the workforce. Work has started and managers report benefits at work.

14. National Vocational Qualifications

- 14.1 Corporate Development and Training runs an accredited Centre for Management, Training and Development, Administration, Customer Service and Health and Safety NVQs.

- 14.2 Documentation is on the intranet. We have some in-house assessors, and some are being trained. They can manage a small number of NVQ candidates. Larger numbers of candidates would need to work with consultants. Social Services has an extensive NVQ programme.

15. Career Trainees

Career Trainees are in demand across the council. Currently we have 13, and will shortly be recruiting up to two more. Over one hundred local youngsters have completed the scheme; around 60% of them are still with us, and, at our last estimate, they were about 75% of our under thirties workforce. Those who go on to careers outside the Council also do well: for example, one is a senior consultant for PWC, another is earning a top salary as a solicitor. There was a full report on the scheme in March 2003, and the Audit Commission cited the scheme as one of the mechanisms we have in place for developing staff capacity.

16. Management and Leadership Development

- 16.1 Feedback on our 15 and 6 day management development programmes has been consistently good, but we have decided to try a change: contracts for supervisory/junior and middle/senior management development programmes have gone out to tender and contracts have been awarded. New programmes will provide basic management certification, accredited by the Institute of Leadership and Management.
- 16.2 Three lunchtime talks, on team building and motivation, have been provided for senior managers, and more are planned for next financial year.

17. Mentoring

The Council's mentoring scheme continues to thrive, and the Inter-Borough Mentoring Scheme with Havering and Redbridge is up and running. At a review, both mentors and mentees spoke of benefits to them.

18. Competencies

Consultants will be commissioned to develop our competencies, or skills, for leaders, managers, and for all staff, with descriptions of the behaviour they need. We aim to link these competencies to job descriptions, to get 'job competency profiles'. Our consultants will also establish protocols for the use of the competencies, and assist in rolling them out across the Council. In line with Standing Orders, this work will go out to tender.

19. Approved List

We have a continuously growing and changing approved list of development and training consultants who can be hired anywhere in the Council.

20. Workforce Planning

Training records are kept on Oracle, and the Oracle team is working to provide reports on the data which will help with performance management and evaluation. The Oracle database needs to hold a complete record of each person's learning and development activities, and to allow the information to be retrieved and reported in such a way that it provides an effective management information system as a basis for workforce planning.

21. Members' Development

- 21.1 The Members' Development Working Party continues to meet regularly to plan and steer this work, and has recently reviewed the policy. Seven visits to Beacon Councils took place in April-December. This is in line with the Audit Commission's recommendation that councillors visit best practice authorities/organisations. Members who wanted one have all got a written Personal Development Plan.
- 21.2 In-house training sessions continue regularly, always with a focus on scrutiny work. There are a series of departmental open days and briefings this year. Members also attend many external courses, seminars and conferences, as well as the Improvement and Development Agency's Leadership Academy.
- 21.3 Co-opted Members, members of the Borough Partnership, and officers are invited to training sessions.

22. Budgets

Oracle needs to be used to enable us to track our spend on training.

23. Benchmarking

We have benchmarked with three 'excellent' authorities in London. Most remarkable was the diversity of the three Councils in the size, the functioning and the practices of their development and training, and one had not had a Head of Human Resources for a year. Common themes were: all have gone for Investors in People, all central functions are providing consultancy and training delivery themselves as required by their Councils for reasons of political awareness. One of them spends three and a half to four percent of the pay bill on training. We spend much less than that, but, in quantitative terms, our statistics are higher in terms of the numbers of central courses, days of training and attendees. Their corporate team has eight staff who cover a smaller number of employees.

24. Conclusions

- Led by the Management Team, we need to plan and prioritise, set objectives for, and evaluate learning and development across the Council.
- We need to progress learning and development across the Council systematically, consistently and faster.
- All leaders and managers need to engage fully in their role responsibilities for developing their staff.

Chief Executive's Department: Development and Training: 2002-2003

The Chief Executive's Department was re-structured in April 2003. As a result two Departments, namely Finance Department and Corporate Strategy Department were created.

Prior to April 2003, the Chief Executive's Department (CEX Dept) contained 4 divisions; Democratic & Legal Services, Policy & Performance, Finance and Human Resources. The development and training priorities for the Department (re "People Matter") 2002/03 were:

1. Attainment of Investors in People Award

One division (Democratic & Legal Services) had already achieved IIP status during 2001/02. Corporate Strategy Department has since been awarded the same status, with the Finance Department aiming to obtain accreditation by March 2004.

2. Implementing Appraisals

A key priority within the CEX Dept was supporting managers in implementing the corporate appraisal process.

By end March 2003:

- 85% (377 staff out of 445) staff had been appraised
- 85% (377 staff out of 445) staff had Personal Development Plans in place
- 85% (445 staff) had agreed performance objectives

Monitoring of this will continue in order to achieve 100% returns.

3. Managing Sickness/Reducing Sickness Levels

Another priority for the Department was to reduce the number of sickness absences. Departmental Human Resources supported this by providing:

- 10 half-day Managing Sickness Sessions with 150 Managers/Supervisors in total attending

As a result the number of sickness absences reduced. In addition Departmental Guidelines were amended. Work will continue in this area during 2003/04.

4. Induction

All staff in the CEX Department continued to have access to the Corporate Induction Programme. To support this a new Departmental Induction Pack was produced. The amended version includes both the corporate requirements and staff information.

5. Other Training and Development

The following activities took place (across the Chief Executive's Department) during 2002/03:

- Continuation of accredited CIPFA training programme, 3 trainees were accepted on the programme.

This very successful programme will continue within the Finance Department in 2003/04.

- One member of staff has been accepted on Positive Action training; PATH Programme (only three places were available across the Council).
- Continuation of a Legal Services training programme (2 trainees accepted).
- Attendance on mandatory corporate courses:

- Recruitment and Selection 29 attended
- Appraisal training 15 attended
- Equalities and Diversity 42 attended
- Attendance on Corporate Management briefing sessions and mentoring programmes (internal and external) and mandatory project management training for managers. Strengthening managers supervisory skills in preparation for Investors in People was also a key priority.
- Specialist technical training for IS/IT staff, such as :
 - Microsoft Windows 2000 programme
 - Mastering Microsoft Visual Basic Version 6 Development
 - Professional Windows Server Installation
- Training in Revenue Services (Housing Benefits)
 - Two basic benefit courses one for ten days duration and one six days duration, a total of 22 staff attended.
 - One new Tax Credit course of ½ day duration (six sessions) for 60 people.
 - One Verification Framework refresher and Fraud Awareness course of a days duration over four sessions for 40 people.
 - Kick-start training for one week in partnership with Synergy for around 12 potential employees (of which we employed six).
 - PINS management training.
 - In addition, Verification Framework and Financial Awareness training for HB, Revenue, Housing and outside agencies for 75-100 people.
- Corporate lunch-time talks on team building and project management events have also been successfully attended

6. Priorities for 2003/04

Priorities re training and development for the two departments: Finance Department and Corporate Strategy Department, will be on:

- Continuation and investment in IIP award, specifically maintaining departmental training programmes.
- Strengthening performance management information to inform and establish a learning culture.
- Developing communication strategies and processes to ensure all staff are kept informed, specifically building on staff attitude survey.
- Implementation of competencies (particularly leadership) will continue e.g. provision of training date.
- Assisting in e-government strategy and achieving government targets for electronic service delivery. This is to be supported by appropriate learning and development.
- Monitoring and furthering Organisational Development Programme.

7. Training & Development Budgets:

Each division within the CEx Dept (Democratic & Legal Services, Policy & Performance, Human Resources, Finance) maintains their own training & development budgets equalling to approx. £120k in total. A large proportion of this was used to deliver IS/IT training programmes, Customer Care, management development training and events working towards IIP status.

Education, Arts and Libraries: Development and Training 2002-2003

- New appraisal monitoring arrangements in place. Appraisal for former manual staff likely to be in place ahead of deadlines in departmental action plan. Appraisal training in place for those new to carrying out appraisals (eg cook supervisors trained).
- New Departmental Induction arrangements in place – 1st day induction checklist, and individual induction programmes for all staff.
- Balanced scorecard used to form departmental training plan.
- Working towards Investors in People key development activity for all managers. Investors in People action plan in place. IIP regular item on DMT agenda.
- Post Entry Training Budget in place – 7 staff have had applications for professional qualifications agreed. Monitoring arrangements in place order to analyse applications (ethnicity, disability, gender, grade, and age). Promotional activities in place.

Housing and Health: Development and Training: 2002-2003

Our main priorities for Housing and Health

Investors in People To ensure that the overall training needs of the Department, as identified by the balanced scorecard are reviewed and defined annually using the appraisal and regular one to ones for all staff.

To ensure that all training is evaluated and improvements made to ensure continuous improvement of training and development practices and training provision. A cost vs benefit analysis is needed for all Housing and Health training.

All managers are trained to be able to manage an environment that is going through high levels of change

Stats

Total staff on Housing and Health - 335 staff

Our training budget is as follows:-

£12,000	Health and Consumer Services	60 staff
£40,000	Landlord Services	225 staff
£26,000	Housing Strategy, HR and any other Housing and Health sections	50 staff

2002-2003
Appraisal	87%
PDP	87%

Performance & People Management

All supervisory/management staff will undergo interviewing skills and performance management training in order to give effect to Council decisions that

- All staff should be appraised every year, with a six month review being undertaken following every appraisal.
- Managers need to work within our recruitment/equalities policy and adhere to current procedures when recruiting staff.

Induction

Appropriate staff will receive basic induction training. In support of this each employee will be issued with an induction pack with information relevant to their new role.

All staff attend a Housing and Health induction day. This is co-ordinated by HR along with their start date.

Recent improvements have been to add the following information: - Balanced Scorecard, liP information and Appraisal Procedures.

Recruitment & Selection

All staff who will be selecting applicants for jobs will be required to undergo mandatory recruitment and selection training which is designed to ensure that, Council-wide, there is a fair and consistent approach to recruitment and selection procedures.

Promoting Equal Opportunities and Celebrating Diversity

All staff are expected to understand issues pertaining to working for a culturally diverse organisation and community, and appropriate training will be provided to new and existing staff.

Since Equalities training has been made mandatory for all staff - our recruitment figures show that there has been a 7% raise in the amount of BME staff recruited 2002/2003.

Health & Safety

All new staff undergo health & safety training during their induction. In addition a programme of training is available covering: manual handling objects management of health & safety risk assessments.

Dealing with Violence and Aggression workshops have been undertaken. Training sessions based on the outcomes of the workshops will be run in Oct/Nov 03.

Customer Care

Courses & special programmes will be developed for front-line staff in line with our Customer First Initiative. Customer care training is planned for coming months.

NVQ's (in specific areas)

Appropriate staff who meet the criteria for NVQ training and subject to budget provision will undergo NVQ training.

Currently we have a small Customer Services team in Health and Consumer services Dept. undertaking NVQ Level 2 in Customer Care and D32 and D33 for two assessors.

Workshop briefings (Managers Toolkit)

The following workshop briefings will be available on the following subjects:

- Equalities
- Recruitment & selection
- Safer Services
- Management of Absence/Sickness
- Disciplinarys
- Grievances
- Harassment and Bullying
- Appraisals
- DDA

One session on Sickness management has directly resulted in 6 long term sick staff being brought back to work.

One session on DDA awareness has resulted in access to work support being accessed for one of our disabled employees.

This has been recently reviewed to be delivered in 2hour session to make it more accessible for manager to attend.

Balanced Score Card

All staff will be briefed on the Balanced Scorecard approach. Its aim is to maximise the benefits and outcomes from the modernisation agenda. Landlord services have completed briefings on the Balanced scorecard "Make a Difference" project. All 266 staff attended the briefings - this has helped greatly with the cascading of objectives.

Post –Entry Training/Day Release

Housing and Health' Post –Entry Training/Day Release Scheme is available to all staff. Evaluation show that 70% of internal promotion have been by staff who have previously undertaken studies through this scheme. Improvements have been made to tie bids into a yearly cycle through the PDP's at the beginning of the financial year.

Leisure and Environmental Services: Development and Training 2002-2003

- Training budget £59,000.
- About 45% of the budget is spent on professional and vocational training, the other 55% on Induction, Health & Safety, Customer Care, Equalities, performance management and management development.
- Training needs are identified via personal development plans and balanced scorecard objectives.
- Planning Division gained IIP status.
- 4 staff have commenced NVQ Assessor Awards in Customer Service
- 9 staff have commenced NVQ Awards in Customer Service.
- Outcomes of courses are evaluated and courses changed if required.
- As part of the departmental organisation development plan a stress audit has been undertaken and training on identifying and managing stress has been organised.
- All new starters are booked onto the Departmental and Corporate Induction programmes. The Departmental programme is currently under review.
- The action plan for adult basic skills was implemented. 30 members of staff commenced basic skills programmes.
- An integrated programme of basic skills, health and safety and customer care training is currently being developed for frontline staff based at Frizlands and is due for implementation later this year.
- A rolling programme of violence and aggression training for specific staff groups has commenced.
- 7 members of staff completed post entry training courses
- 6 members of staff commenced post entry training

Social Services: Development and Training: 2002-2003

- Social Services held two Performance Management Days for all Social Services Managers in April and June.
- Designed and developed a Management Development Programme (SPRP) Service, Performance, Resources, People.
- Currently recruiting to Children & Families Training & Development Co-ordinator post and planning to recruit to the NVQ Centre Manager Post (seconded in place from training team)
- Implementing NVQ Assessment Centre Plan - Centre has now been re-accredited by City and Guilds and made more accessible to all divisions
- Recently registered 30 Candidates for NVQ Level 2 and 3 in Care
- Developed a Training Partnership Programme with the voluntary, private sector to deliver NVQ's in Care as part of TOPSS Induction Foundation Standards.
- Planning to design a career pathway for all employees in line with Care Standards requirements
- Obtained sourcing funding for NVQ's from CDC, a local brokerage working on behalf of the Learning and Skills Council
- Partnership working with the Primary Care Trust - already delivered our first two joint induction workshops
- Organise DipSW Secondments (2002/3 - 10 candidates) (2003/4- 17 candidates) using DoH Student Support Sub-programme (£83,063) and Occupational Therapy Secondments using NELWDC funding (£20,000 approx) (Advertise, Interview, Process, Arrange placements and practice teachers)
- Training Support Programme £173,993, PQ Child Care Award Sub-programme (£28,956)
- Allocate & monitor funding for specific projects e.g National Minimum Standards Grant (£86,307) from the DoH's National Training Strategy Grant for NVQ's. Human Resource Development Strategy Grant (£38,728) - create a Recruitment and Retention Specialist Role (initially a one year contract).Oversee the Trainee Social Worker Scheme (£28,956)
- Developing the multi-agency Area Child Protection Committee Training Programme
- Arrange training from local providers on the Learning Disability Awards Framework

- 4 Staff from Social Services have successfully completed after one year's study the Certificate in Performance Management in Social Care from Oxford Brookes University. The course was run by the Social Services Research and Development Unit and is part of the Institute of Public Care at Oxford Brookes University. The programme was designed to help team managers and service managers understand the government's modernising agenda and the importance of performance management and business planning within this framework.
- Our team have worked extensively to raise our profile and PR for training. We consist of 1 T & D Manager, 1 Children & Families Training Officer, 1 NVQ Centre Manager, 1.5 Training Support Officers.
- Evaluated and reviewed all training for 2002/3. All divisions of the SS Department consulted regarding our training strategy.
- Personal Development folders being designed for all Social Services Staff.

Proposed Corporate Objectives for Development and Training

Here are proposed corporate objectives for development and training for the whole Council. Equalities and Diversity is to be mainstreamed throughout.

1. Customer First

Objective:

As defined by the Customer First project

Outcomes:

As defined by the Customer First project

Measures of success and actions:

Community First

2. Leaders

Objective:

To develop effective leaders who demonstrate the Council's leadership competencies in the workplace when assessed in the appraisal/Personal Performance Management process, and who lead by example.

Top management [Directors and Heads of Service] and all other officers in a leadership role..

Outcomes: Leaders deliver the Council's organisational strategy

Measures of Success

Level 1: All leaders will have a development matrix as part of the Personal Development Plan

Level 2: There will be an increase in the range of development opportunities used.

Level 3: There will be a percentage improvement rating in appraisal/Personal Performance Management.

Key Investment Areas:

Introduce leadership competencies and a protocol for their use which enables an assessment of leadership capability, and development (report pending).

Work towards accreditation for the lIP Leadership and Management Model

Design a development matrix (OD+ER to do); implement and use this from Chief Executive onwards at appraisal/Personal Performance Management and give an initial rating against the leadership competencies at appraisal/Personal Performance Management (leaders and managers to do).

Participate in external accredited leadership programmes and development activities (departments to fund attendance on external courses) and the full range of development activities such as:

- shadowing
- secondment
- mentoring
- on-the-job development
- e-learning
- coaching
- self-directed learning
(leaders to do)

3. Managers

Objective:

To develop effective managers, who demonstrate competence in the workplace when assessed at appraisal.

Outcomes: Staff work effectively, deliver on their performance objectives, and continuously improve their performance

Measures of Success:

All managers to have a development matrix as part of their Personal Development Plan (OD+ER/managers to do). An increase in the range of development opportunities used (managers to do; HR to collate data). Percentage improvement rating in appraisal against skills and actions below – not a rating just for skills but also for carrying out proper management process (managers/DMTs/TMT to do). As with the improvement rating mentioned in 4.1, this involves a new design for our appraisal scheme (working party to do).

We need to define management skills, possibly as part of leadership competencies, and these are the sorts of skills managers need:

- People skills – dealing with individuals, teams, and customers; self analysis
- Planning
- Evaluating
- Finance and procurement
- Managing change
- Learning
- Organisational understanding

These are the sorts of activities managers need to undertake:

- Project Management
- Procurement
- Performance Management including HR responsibilities such as:
 - induction
 - appraisal

- personal development planning
- regular supervision
- coaching
- absence management
- capability management
- discipline and grievance
- Basic Skills needs identification
- Risk Assessment and Health and Safety
- Customer Service
- Equalities and Diversity

Key Investment Areas:

Define and introduce management skills, possibly as part of leadership competencies, and a protocol for their use which enables an assessment of management capability, and development (report pending).

Design a development matrix (OD+ER to do); implement and use this, as appropriate, from Chief Executive onwards at appraisal/Personal Performance Management (leaders and managers to do).

Managers to participate in:

- mandatory in-house accredited management programmes
- briefings: mandatory corporate HR briefings on legislation, policy etc for all managers to
 - convey consistent messages
 - encourage networking and learning
 - and thus consolidate culture change (external consultants to do)
- workshops
- and the full range of development activities such as:
 - shadowing
 - secondment
 - mentoring
 - on-the-job development
 - e-learning
 - coaching
 - self-directed learning (leaders and managers to do)

(DMTs also to give commitment and support)

5. Basic Skills

Objective:

To raise the level of basic skills in the workplace.

Outcomes:

Improved performance from motivated staff.

Measures of success and key investment areas:

As specified in the Embedding
Basic Skills in the Workplace Project.

(ABSI team, HR teams, Departments, Unions to do).

6. Induction

Objective:

To ensure that all new entrants, and staff who change jobs within the Council, are effectively inducted and introduced to their new roles, responsibilities and environment.

Outcomes:

Staff know how they fit into the Council's work and how to support the Council's culture.

Measures of Success:

All new entrants and staff changing jobs have written induction plans which are followed through and completed.

All new entrants attend corporate induction within four months.

Key Investment Areas:

Corporate and departmental induction guidelines to be implemented and monitored.

(Departmental HR to do)

7. Technical Skills

Objective:

To develop staff who have the technical, as differentiated from leadership/managerial/supervisory, skills to perform effectively

Outcomes:

Capable and confident staff who deliver on their targets

Measures of Success:

Staff demonstrate competence in the technical aspects of their jobs when rated at appraisal.

Key Investment Areas:

Departmental plans for technical skills development and continuing professional development to be drawn up and implemented as part of liP action plans.

(Departmental leaders/managers and HR to do)

8. Health and Safety

Objective:

To promote Health and Safety through improved management of risk

Outcomes:

Staff who have confidence in their managers, their environment and their projects

Measures of Success:

Level 1: Percentage of annual risk assessments completed by managers
Level 2: All projects include a Health and Safety/risk assessment element in written plans

Key Investment Areas:

Risk assessments to be completed (managers to do)
A corporate database on completed risk assessments to be kept (OD+ER to do)
A briefing to be provided for all project managers on including Health and Safety/risk assessment in project plans (OD+ER to do).
Training (OD+ER to do)

Appendix 2

- Issues where a corporate standard is appropriate should be mandatory and should be a corporate responsibility. This can be led from within a service.
- Issues where a service standard is appropriate should be a service responsibility. Again, they should be mandatory within a service.
- Technical skills and optional development should be provided by services.
- The mandatory training which should be provided by Corporate Organisational Development and Employee Relations is development for leaders, managers and supervisors, because:
 - The standard needs to be set and maintained corporately.
 - Managers and leaders need to learn in the company of others across the Council to foster corporate working
 - It is what was most requested in this year's Needs Analysis meetings with Departmental Management Teams.

The evidence from our equalities training is that a clear focus on a specific area really does make a difference.

- Senior Managers and Line Managers must take up their role responsibilities for development and training. Every self-respecting modern manager:
 - Commits to developing their individual staff and team
 - Carries out annual appraisals, with reviews
 - Ensures all staff have Personal Development Plan
 - Supervises staff regularly
 - Provides induction for new starters and role changes
 - Delegates to, and coaches, staff
 - Discusses learning objectives with staff before learning events and debriefs them afterwards.
