What are we doing to drive improvement going forward?

- Daily review of all new burglary reports to quality assure initial investigation, identify linked series early and safeguard against risks where identified

- Regular tasking meetings and cross-border conference calls chaired by Detective Chief Inspector.

- Ongoing tasking of Met Intel analytical and FIO assets to develop intelligence into known offenders.

- Targeted media releases highlighting 'good news' and crime prevention/target hardening via local news and MPS social media

- Weekly review of hotspots and key targets to identify default patrol areas for uniformed and plain-clothes patrols

- Ongoing review of investigative processes to ensure early capture of best evidence.

Examples Of Good Work – Operation Mexico

- OCN of 20+ nominals identified in vast series of Millennium Burglaries across NE and South London, Essex, Herts and Kent responsible for believed over 200+ offences, including a significant amount across Havering, between December 2017 and February 2018.

- Following an extensive and complex investigation, 5 males have been convicted of their involvement in these offences receiving between 3.5 and 4.5 years each in custody for conspiracy to commit burglary and conspiracy to steal motor vehicles. Their arrests led to a significant reduction in offences being experienced in Havering and surrounding boroughs, which has been maintained ever since they were taken off the street.

- A further 7 offenders have recently been charged for their part in this large conspiracy and are due to appear at Snaresbrook Crown Court on the 19th December 2018.

Examples Of Good Work – Charlie Davies

- A large scale linked series of residential and non-residential burglaries across all of East Area and surrounding was identified by Priority Crime Officers where the lone male suspect, habitually wearing a hi-vis jacket, was committing opportunistic offences breaking in and stealing from within. It is believed over 30 offences over a course of within EA alone were committed by DAVIES.

- Exensive forensic submissions and CCTV work identified the suspect as Charlie DAVIES, of no fixed abode, but with strong links to the Dagenham area.

- PCT officers led a manhunt-style approach and DAVIES was eventually located and arrested in Basildon, Essex.

- Due to the high quality investigation and extensive evidence, DAVIES was successfully charged and remanded with 16 burglary offences, awaiting trial. Further linked offences continue to be identified through ongoing forensic work and the investigation to obtain charges for these continue.

Examples of Good Work – Steleo Ramadani

- Known Dagenham burglar, moped crime nominal and gang affiliate Steleo Ramadani was arrested on 10/10/2018 in relation to multiple burglaries across East Area and Kent following work by Priority Crime Team and the Violent Crime Task Force.

- Following joint work between the PCT and Kent Police, he was charged with 8 burglary offences (MPS and Kent) and is on remand at HMP Cookham Wood awaiting trial.
